Help is on the way...

Parents face many challenges raising a family.

Life can be stressful and even overwhelming at times. Many parents don't know where to turn for help when problems arise.

At the Norfolk Family Services Center, we help families through difficult times.

We believe that parents want their families to be safe, healthy and strong.

We believe that families are experts about their children, and with a little help from community resources, have the power to find solutions and make positive changes.
